BUFFALO, N.Y. a city in NEW YORK STATE, at the E. end of Lake Erie and the W. terminus of New York State's famous waterway, the Erie Canal. Area, 42 square miles; population (1910) 423,715; the largest harbor on the Great Lakes; longest breakwater in the world; and 24 grain elevators, capacity 22,500,000 bushels.

The principal industries are: iron, steel, copper, car building, flour, clothing, furniture, meat packing and machinery; 15 trunk line railroads with their large number of branches enter Buffalo and, with the water transportation, offer facilities for manufacturing unsurpassed by any city in the world; electric power, generated at Niagara Falls, is extensively used for manufacturing purposes.

CHARLESTON, S.C. This is the chief city of SOUTH CAROLINA, and one of the most important ports on the Atlantic coast; the population (1910) is 58,833.

Has the largest and deepest harbour on the South Atlantic coast, having a channel 7 miles long, 600 feet wide, 28 feet deep at mean low water, with a tide rise of 5 feet 2 inches, which will admit the largest vessels. Has U. S. Navy yard and dry dock capable of holding the largest vessels in the navy.

It is the port of shipment of the cotton and rice grown and the cotton goods manufactured in the State of South Carolina.

An important industry of the district is the manufacture and export of fertilizers from the phosphate rock, which exists in immense quantities in the State, the mines yielding 250,000 tons a year. Has 13 fertilizer factories with an annual output of 400,000 tons.

It is the market for the finest grade of Sea Island cotton, raised on the surrounding islands. Large quantities of cotton are exported.

Total imports 1912 were valued at $5,200,000, and the exports were valued at $12,407,035.

Here is a Chamber of Commerce (A. V. Snell, mng. sec.); a Cotton Exchange (supt. R. R. Jervey) and a Merchants' Exchange (sec. George R. Fishburne).

Lloyd's Agent, Jas. Hampden Small.

CHICAGO, ILL., the second largest city of the United States, is situated in the State of ILLINOIS, on the S.W. shore of Lake Michigan. It had a population in 1910 of 2,185,283. It is the distributing centre of an enormous territory and is the largest interior shipping port in the United States. It is remarkable for the enormous strides it has made in extent, population, and the industries carried on. Thirty-eight railway lines centre in Chicago, and have terminal stations there, and it is by the lines running to the coast that a great portion of the grain, cattle and manufactured goods are conveyed for shipment. It is the largest cattle market in the world, and is the headquarters of nearly all the great meat packing houses of the U. S.

The live stock received at Chicago during 1912 was as follows:—

Cattle	2,652,342
Calves	505,401
Swine	7,180,967
Sheep	6,055,546
Horses & mules	93,000
	16,487,256

CINCINNATI (OHIO) is situated on the north bank of the river of the same name. Population (1912) was 379,240.

The Ohio river gives valuable carrying facilities, and the Miami canal unites it with Lake Erie; in addition, twenty trunk railroads radiate to nearly every section of the country.

It is a leading centre in the United States for the manufacture of machine tools. There are many large factories of carriages and buggies, automobiles, leather, harness and saddlery, playing-cards, machine specialties, jewelry, soap, whiskey, hardware, safes, ornamental ironwork, sheet metal building material, peanut roasting and corn popping machines, railway supplies, stoves, ranges and furnaces, and other important trades. There is a large trade in wheat, flour and maize, grain and hay; also meat packing supplies, cottonseed oil &c.

The various business organizations in this city have recently merged their interests, forming the "Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce and Merchants' Exchange" (executive secretary, W. C. Culkins; secretary of foreign trade, Bernhard Freudenstein).

CLEVELAND, OHIO (CUYAHOGA CO.) (including Glenville), is often spoken of as the "Sixth City," and is the county seat and a port of entry on the southern shore of Lake Erie. The principal industry of the city is the manufacture of steel and iron and their allied products, and also automobiles, paints and varnishes and many kinds of machinery, all of which are largely exported. The city is famous as a distributing centre of iron ore, lumber and coal. Population (1910), 560,663. Here is a Chamber of Commerce, M. A. Havens, secretary.
Lloyd's Agent, R. Parry-Jones.

EVERETT, WASH. (SNOHOMISH CO.), is in the centre of the Puget Sound Country, and is the Pacific Coast freight terminus of the Great Northern Railway; having the largest freight yards on the coast. The Northern Pacific have trackage and terminal grounds and contemplate building direct line to Spokane, saving over 100 miles over other routes. The Canadian Pacific has permanent trackage rights and terminal rates into the City. This City leads the state in lumber and shingles; the other products are sashes and doors, preserved timber, ships, lead and bullion, flour, machinery, paper, leather and dairy products. Population, 24,814 (1910). Here is a Chamber of Commerce.

FRESNO, CAL. (FRESNO CO.) ("The Raisin City"). Situated geographically in the centre of the State, 206 miles South of San Francisco, 269 North of Los Angeles and 100 from the sea. The county comprises 3,600,000 acres, more than half of which is under cultivation. It is very fertile and thoroughly adapted to agriculture, horticulture, viticulture, stock-raising and dairy farming. The soil is sandy. It is situated in the irrigation belt, and supplied with water from the snow-clad Sierras, through the King's and San Joaquin Rivers. These two feed hundreds of small ditches which traverse the plains. The chief industries are wine and raisin grapes and lumber, deciduous fruits, green fruits, alfalfa and dairying. A very large quantity of cattle, poultry, sheep and hogs are also raised. The population of the city is 24,892 (1910). Exports for the year were about $31,000,000.00. There is a County Chamber of Commerce (Wm. Robertson, sec.).

Galveston ranks as the greatest exporting port in the world for cotton, one of the greatest for the export of wheat and the second port in the U.S. in total value of all exports and imports.

The principal imports consist of sisal grass from Mexico, carpets and linoleum, earthen and glass ware, rice, salt, steel rails and fishplates, toys, liquors, tropical fruits, coffee, sugar, bottles, cement, corks, galvanised iron, drugs (especially caustic soda), oils (including creosote), fibres &c., while the chief exports are cotton, cotton seed oil and cake, wheat, maize, rice, flour, lumber, oil, provisions and live stock.

The steam tonnage during 1912 was: entered, 1,230,693 foreign; 435,743 foreign coastwise; cleared, 1,581,527 foreign; 112,333 foreign coastwise.

Vessels drawing 30 feet of water can come to the docks, which are in the centre of the city. A splendid sea wall has been built and jetties, which extend nine miles out into the Gulf of Mexico, are now completed for the protection of the harbour.

Lloyd's Agent, William F. Beers.

GULFPORT, MISS. (HARRISON CO.). Population (1910), 8,386. Is situated on what may be termed the edge of the Gulf of Mexico. The port known in marine circles as Ship Island Harbour has an average depth of 24 feet 6 inches. Has fine anchorage in the harbour by means of a channel seven miles in length, with a depth of 22 feet at mean low tide. The wharves are a mile long, with 3,500 feet of open wharf constructed at a cost of $1,500,000. A new wharf is being constructed which will double the capacity. It is midway between Mobile and New Orleans, on the Louisville and Nashville R. R., and is the terminal of the Gulf and Ship Island Railroad, which extends to Jackson, Miss., a distance of 160 miles. The principal exports are timber, lumber, naval stores, cotton and cotton seed products. Here is a Commercial Union (T. P. Hale, secretary).

HOUSTON, TEX., is 362 miles W. of New Orleans and 50 miles N. of Galveston, on the Houston & Texas Central, Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fé, International & Great Northern, San Antonio & Arkansas Pass, Galveston, Harrisburg & San Antonio, Texas & New Orleans, Beaumont, Sour Lake & Western, Houston East & West Texas, Trinity & Brazos Valley, Missouri, Kansas & Texas, St. Louis, Brownsville & Mexico, Galveston, Houston & Henderson & Texas Transportation Co. R. Rs. Population in 1910, 78,800. Here are a Cotton Exchange (John F. Burwell, sec.) and a Chamber of Commerce (Adolph Boldt, sec.). It is the centre of the richest cotton lands in U. S. Houston is a port of entry. The Ship channel, undergoing improvement by the Government at a cost of $4,500,000, gives direct communication with the sea and guarantees water freight rates. Annual shipping of port of Houston, $52,000,000. Low freight rates render the city the distributing centre of the South-west. Houston is the railroad centre of the State, having seventeen lines of road, with the finest terminals south of St. Louis. Houston is the largest inland port cotton market in the world; is the South's greatest lumber market; centre of rice distribution (mill capacity over 4,500 barrels daily); centre of oil industry; has greater wholesale trade and more factories than any other Texas city; leads in iron consumption and iron manufacture. Financial centre of the South-west. Has six cotton-seed oil mills and an extensive trade in cotton seed products.

JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA (population, in 1910, 57,699), is on the St. John's river, 20 miles from the ocean. It has 24 feet depth of water between the city and the ocean and 24 feet over the bar. Great improvements are being made in deepening the channel by the Government, in order to give the port a 30 feet channel to the sea. It has direct communication with the principal cities in the U. S. by nine railroad systems, and by ocean steamships with Boston, New York (steamers tri-weekly), Philadelphia and Baltimore. It has the only dry dock on the Atlantic coast south of Newport News, 4,500 tons capacity. It is rapidly becoming one of the principal marts for lumber and naval stores in the U.S. The largest ostrich farm in the U. S. is located here. Two large elevators have been erected for handling phosphate. The principal exports are naval stores, lumber, phosphate rock, kaolin, fruits, vegetables and Sea Island cotton. Here is a Board of Trade (H. H. Richardson, sec. and treasurer).

KEY WEST, FLORIDA (MONROE CO.).

This harbour is considered one of the best within the limits of the United States to the south of the Chesapeake. Population (1910), 19,945. The advantages which Key West offers from a commercial point of view are its vicinity to the island of Cuba and the port of Havana, it being a convenient touching-place for all vessels bound to and from the Gulf of Mexico, Bay of Honduras, coasts of Louisiana, Florida, and Texas. Weekly steamers call here between New York and Galveston, and New York and New Orleans; tri-weekly between Tampa, Key West and Havana, and Miami and Key West; tri-weekly from Havana.

LOS ANGELES, CAL. (LOS ANGELES CO.). Population (1910), 319,198. It is the port of entry for Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, Ventura, San Luis Obispo and Orange counties. It is situated on the coast, the old and important part of the city being about 16 miles from the coast. It includes within its limits what was formerly the harbour of San Pedro and Wilmington. It is the terminus of the Santa Fé and also of the San Pedro, Los Angeles & Salt Lake Railway and is on the Southern Pacific route. The San Pedro, Los Angeles and Salt Lake railroad connects Los Angeles directly with Salt Lake City, and passes through a vast mining country. It is the chief town in Southern California, the commercial centre for Southern California, Arizona and New Mexico, and is the second largest city on the Pacific coast. The industry of the county consists of the production of oranges, lemons, olives, grain, vegetables and deciduous fruits and mineral oil (petroleum). The U.S. Government has constructed a breakwater 9,250 feet long, and is dredging the inner harbour, which when completed will enable vessels of any tonnage to load and unload directly on the wharf. The chief imports consist of Portland cement, lumber, glass, paints, tin, coal, coke, pig iron, crockery, salt, salsoda, rice, tea, caustic soda, saltpetre. The total number of vessels entered in 1912 was 3,056, of 2,799,148 nett tonnage. Here is a Chamber of Commerce (Frank Wiggins, sec.). Merchants' & Manufacturers' Association, F. J. MINNEAPOLIS MINNESOTA, situated upon both banks of the Mississippi River at St. Anthony Falls, yielding 40,000 horse power. The chief industries are manufacturing and jobbing. It is the largest grain centre in the world and is also one of the principal centres of the American lumber trade. There are excellent transport facilities, owing to the many railroads which pass through. Population, 301,408 (1910). Here is a Chamber of Commerce.

MOBILE, ALA.—This is the only seaport in the State, also the second largest city in the State. It is situated on the west coast of the river Mobile immediately above its mouth in Mobile Bay. There is now a depth of water of 30ft. over the bar of Mobile harbour, with a depth of 27 feet up the straight channel (200 feet wide) to Mobile. Population (1910), 51,521.

Railroads: Louisville and Nashville, New Orleans, Mobile and Chicago, Mobile and Ohio, and Southern Railways.

Among the articles imported from foreign parts to Mobile are iron ties from England, used for cotton bales. Salt at one time was entirely imported here from England, but considerable quantities are sent from Louisiana now; from this port it is distributed throughout Alabama and Mississippi.

Other imports are asphalt, sulphur ore, creosote oil, fire bricks, ale and porter in bottles, packed in barrels, and stone and china ware.

Exports are cotton, timber staves, iron, ships' stores, flour, grain, packing house products, coal and general merchandise.

Mobile is the second largest fruit-importing city in the U.S.A. and the second importing city of sisal in the U.S.A. Indiarubber is imported in large quantities, and hardwood from Cuba, Central and South America.

Here is a Chamber of Commerce and Business League; also a Cotton Exchange.

The regular lines of steamships sailing out of Mobile are:—
Atlantic and Mexican Gulf Steamship Company
Bay Steamship Co
Compania Naviera del Golfo (Mobile to Mexican ports)
Elder-Dempster Line, Mobile to Liverpool, Bremen, Havre, Hamburg, Rotterdam and other U.K. and Continental ports
Gulf State Shipping Co
Gulf Steamship Co
Hubbard-Zemurry Line
Mallory Line (New York to Mobile)
Mobile & Gulf Steamship Co. (Mobile to Tampa)

NEWPORT NEWS, VA. (WARWICK CO.). Population, 20,205 (1910). It is situated at the point where the James, Nansemound and Elizabeth rivers unite to form the "Hampton Roads," an estuary of the Chesapeake Bay. The land-locked harbour is secure against storm. The three great rivers, seven to twenty miles in breadth at their mouths, afford a channel to the city 32 feet deep at low water and 35 feet deep at high water. It is the terminus of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, which is the largest of any single transportation company in this country. It has two large grain elevators, one of which is the largest in the world. The largest industry is the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company, representing an investment of $15,000,000. Its new dry dock was built at a cost of $1,000,000, and is the largest in this country, being 827 feet long, 162 feet wide, with a draught of 30 feet. Here is a Chamber of Commerce.

NEW YORK CITY

BROOKLYN & LONG ISLAND CITY are within the City limits. For names see under separate headings.

This is the principal city and seaport of the United States, and, including suburbs, the second largest city of the globe, having a population, in 1910, of 4,766,883. The greatest part of the entire imports into the United States enters this port; it is also the great centre of the carrying trade in grain and other produce to Great Britain and the Continent, and the details of import and export fairly represent those of the whole country.

There entered in the foreign trade of the port of New York, in 1912, 4,095 vessels of 14,024,942 tons.

The value of exports from and imports to New York to and from the principal foreign countries during 1912 :—
